POPE PIUS NEAR DEATH

Stricken with a cerebral stroke, Pope Pius XII lay near death today at Castel Gandolfo, Italy. He has received the Roman Catholic Church's last rites.

PM Cool on 'Help' Call From Municipal Leaders

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's cities and towns today launched their appeal for increased federal financial assistance but Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated the central administration has huge commitments of its own, requiring heavy financing and borrowing.

Defence and social security programs alone took up almost $4,000,000,000 or two-thirds of total federal spending annually, Mr. Diefenbaker said as he opened a two-day federal-municipal conference in the Parliament Buildings.

The federal administration would have a budget deficit of some $700,000,000 this year. Its borrowing needs were so great that it had to increase its total bond issues by an average of about $100,000,000 a month.

But the municipalities saw the situation from a different light. Mayor H. G. R. Mews of St. John's, Nfld., president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said cities and towns are, wearing out faster than they can be repaired.

He said it is highly improbable that municipalities will make any headway against this trend "unless additional financial support is made available to them over and above their present revenue resources."

RULES OUT DISCUSSION

Mr. Diefenbaker immediately ruled out any discussion of granting municipalities any new financial powers. That was a matter for the provinces. They had the exclusive responsibility in this field under the constitution.

Mr. Mews, following Mr. Diefenbaker, said the Federation would like to see a federal-provincial-municipal conference convened to find ways of providing funds for municipal responsibilities.

He said the municipalities are firm believers in the three-level governmental arrangement in Canada—federal, provincial and municipal.

They had no desire to circumvent the constitutional framework within which this system of government works.

"It has proven durable and adequate and has withstood the stresses and strains of every testing period since Confederation."

Neither the morning nor evening communiques made any mention of periods of unconsciousness and loss of speech.

Pope Fights For Life After Stroke

(From Times-News Service) CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (UPI)—Pope Pius XII suffered a paralyzing stroke today that affected his sight, movement and speech.

But by tonight he was reported fighting for his life with remarkable stamina and his doctors said his condition was "visibly improved."

Medical bulletins issued from the papal summer residence here in the Alban Hills where the 82-year-old Pontiff was stricken this morning spoke only of "cerebral circulatory disturbances."

But competent sources and medical opinion said the Pope was stricken with a cerebral thrombosis or a blockage of circulation in the brain.

This brought on a brief period of blindness, partial loss of movement and a loss of speech, the sources said.

The Vatican, or Holy Communion administered to those in danger of death, was administered. Prayers were called for in the churches of the Pontiff's native Rome.

A medical bulletin released at 6:30 p.m. (9:20 a.m. PST) said:

"The condition of the Holy Father was visibly improved since this morning as far as the cerebral circulatory disturbances are concerned," the bulletin said.

The most opportune and urgent treatments have been applied. The stamina of the Holy Father has once again shown considerable resistance. Further observation is necessary before a final definitive prognosis judgment is possible."

The second medical bulletin left no doubt that the Pope's condition could be considered critical.

Neither the morning nor evening communiques made any mention of periods of unconsciousness and loss of speech.

PWA Drops Cross-Canada Route Bid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines said today it would lose $30,000,000 in the first three years of competitive trans-continental air service.

The estimate was made by J. C. Edison, counsel for TCA, at a hearing before the air transport board. The board is considering an application by Canadian Pacific Airlines for a share in the transcontinental market, now monopolized by the government-owned TCA.

Earlier in the hearing, Pacific Western Airlines asked and was given permission by the board to withdraw its application for a transcontinental licence.

U.S. Pleased, But Chiang Claims 'Trick'

Times News Services

TAIPEI — Red China's guns were silent today as Peiping announced a seven-day cease-fire, effective midnight Sunday, on the condition the United States stop escorting Nationalist Chinese convoys to embattled Quemoy island.

The cease-fire order was coupled with a call to Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek to negotiate directly on a settlement over Formosa and the offshore islands.

Chiang, in an interview with a U.S. newsmen, rejected any such direct negotiations with the Communists. He said the Peiping announcement was a "trick and deception" and he hoped the U.S. would continue to escort Nationalist supply convoys with its 7th Fleet warships.

But in Washington, the U.S. formally welcomed the cease-fire offer and indicated that it will stop escorting Nationalist convoys to Quemoy if the shooting stops.

The cautious U.S. reaction was voiced in a statement by Christian R. Herter, acting as state secretary.

RIGHT MOVE

Herter said the offer "seems to move in the direction of a cease-fire."

The United States hoped the Red offer to suspend bombardment of Nationalist-held offshore islands "foreshadows a permanent cessation of their armed attack."

"Should this prove to be the case, there would seem to be no further necessity for the convoy of supply shipments to the offshore island positions," Herter said.

Herter added that the state department is "glad to note" a Nationalist Chinese pledge not to break any cease-fire.

Britain cautiously welcomed the cease-fire as a possible move toward general relaxation of tension in the area.

The foreign office in London made this general statement at a press conference:

"We have consistently said that we deplore the use of force scoring Skowron and McDougald.

Berra's double in the sixth put him in a tie with Frankie Frisch of St. Louis Cardinals for the most hits in series play, 38, and sent him ahead of Babe Ruth for the most total bases in the series, 97 to 98.

The teams now return to Milwaukee for a sixth and possibly a seventh game in the best four-of-seven series. Tuesday will be an open day.

Previous to today Burdette beat the Yankees in four straight series games and had he won today he would have set a series record.

BIG INNING

Yankees' big inning was the sixth in which six runs were scored and Burdette was lifted in favor of Juan Pizarro.

Hank Bauer opened with a single through the hole between second and third. Mickey Mantle dropped a single into short left centre after Jerry Lumpe was called out trying to bunt on the third strike. Yogi Berra doubled to the right-field corner, scoring Bauer and sending Mantle to third. Elston Howard was intentionally passed. Moose Skowron followed with a single past the drawn-in infield, scoring Mantle and leaving the bases loaded.

At this point Burdette was replaced by Pizarro. McDougald, who had scored the first Yankee run with a homer in the second, got a ground-rule double on a bouncing ball into the visiting bull pen, scoring Berra and Howard. Turley completed the rout by lashing a single to left.

For'ard in Reverse For Mixed-Up Ship

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A navy destroyer moored across the Elizabeth River.

Further efforts showed that any attempt to move the vessel ahead put her in reverse instead.

Leaving the yard of the Norfolk Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, the captain of the Notomar telegraphed the engine room to go ahead.

The Notomar promptly shot backward to dent the side of a navy destroyer moored across the Elizabeth River.

Further efforts showed that any attempt to move the vessel ahead put her in reverse instead.

Towed back to the shipyard, it was discovered that her propellers had been mounted in reverse.

"It's never happened before," said one red-faced shipyard official.

DETROIT (AP) — Local labor disputes kept all but three of General Motor's Corporation's 126 plants out of production today, despite a new national contract with the UAW Union.

Mayor Hopes Talks to Lead To Three-Level Conference

Mayor Percy Scurrah said today he hopes the informal federal-municipal conference in Ottawa will lead to a history-making formal conference of all three levels of government.

"There is not much that can be accomplished specifically at this conference except to publicize the plight of the municipalities," he said. "But I do hope that it makes everyone aware of the need for a conference of the three levels of government."

Mayor Scurrah said he was sure that Prime Minister Diefenbaker realized the need for a wider municipal tax base "but I have my doubts that all the provincial premiers are aware of the need."

BENNETT AGREEABLE

"I think our Premier Bennett would go along with a three-level conference but some premiers might not, particularly the premier of one eastern province," he said, in a veiled reference to Quebec's Premier Maurice Duplessis.

Mayor Scurrah said Saanich is a prime example of the need for wider municipal revenue sources.

"There are dozens of fast-growing communities like Saanich across the country. They are having a hard time providing much-needed services with present revenue sources, mainly the property tax."

"Victoria needs a wider base too but the rapidly expanding municipalities are in the worst position."

ON FERRY TAKEOVER

Court Fight Due Late This Month

Court battle between the B.C. Federation of Labor and the provincial government over the use of the Civil Defence Act to take over the Black Ball Ferries last June probably will come immediately after the federation's Vancouver convention Oct. 21 to 24, an official said to day.

Denis McKeown, business agent for the National Association of Marine Engineers, said the issue to be contested was not so much the government's decision to take over the ferries, as the use of the Civil Defence Act in a labor dispute.

"NO EMERGENCY"

"There was no emergency," he told The Times, "and use of the act was improper."

POPE

But shortly before the evening bulletin, a high church source reported a specific sign of improvement.

Marquis Giambattista Sacchetti, quartermaster general of the Sacred Apostolic Palaces, said after leaving the Papal villa that the Pope "drank some coffee and spoke a few words."

A world-wide plea for prayers for the pontiff's recovery was broadcast by the Vatican radio.

The pontiff's immediate family, including his nephews and nieces, arrived here and were immediately ushered to an ante-chamber of his bedroom.

The Vatican radio asked Catholics to pray to God and to the Virgin Mary for restoration of the pontiff's health "which is so precious for the Church and the world."

Vatican sources said the pontiff suddenly awakened while he was being treated for the gastritis and hiccoughs that have troubled him during the last few days.

The combination of hiccoughs and gastritis was the same ailment that struck the pontiff four years ago, gravely weakening him and bringing him near death. But he made a complete recovery and, despite his advanced age, once more resumed the heavy burden of directing the Roman Catholic Church with its nearly 500,000 members.

Since his 1954 illness, the pontiff had seemed in excellent health until last week.

Special prayers for the ailing Pope Plus are being said at all masses of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

Mass times are 7, 8 and 12.15 Monday through Saturday; 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 a.m. Sunday.

Our Own Tariffs Spark Backfire

Consumers Pay Billion a Year Extra Says Gordan Report on Trade Policy

OTTAWA (CP)—Tariffs on imports can help protect some industries but they are costly for consumers.

In fact, Canadian consumers are hit by Canada's tariff structure to the tune of about $1,000,000,000 a year, suggests Professor John H. Young in one of the most searching studies ever undertaken on Canadian commercial policies.

The Vancouver-born Yale professor, weighing the merits of tariff protection, maintains that not only do tariffs add to the price of goods consumers buy, but that over the long run tariff boosts "can be expected to lead to economic losses . . . for the vast majority of Canadians."

Little Help in Easing Unemployment

Even under conditions of general unemployment, it is unlikely that tariffs can be used effectively to increase employment.

"A reduction in unemployment can be secured but since this is at the expense of other countries and since they will in general take steps to protest their own level of employment, any gain through the use of measures of this kind is likely to be very short-lived."

The argument also has been made that tariffs help fledgling

LONDON (UPI) — Actress Ann Todd dropped out of a hit play today to recover from face injuries suffered when two youths knocked her down and ran off with her handbag at a seaside resort.

8 Provinces Oppose Rail Hike 'Blackmail'

OTTAWA (CP)—Eight provincial governments today asked the board of transport commissioners to reject a railway application for a general 19 per cent freight rate increase on grounds that the board lacks jurisdiction to hear it.

The provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec—submitted that the railways are asking for an increase to cover an expense before it is incurred.

The increase sought by the railways would amount to about $60,000,000 a year and would cover the cost of a wage settlement with employees. It is the first time the railways ever have asked the board to provide a freight increase in advance of actually paying out money in wage increases.

The provinces said the railways in effect were asking the board to settle the wage dispute with their employees.

Arthur V. Maura, counsel for Manitoba, said that the application was "a subtle form of economic blackmail." He said the railways were asking the board to perform a managerial re-CNR counsel Gordon Ford said it is "futile" to state that the board does not have jurisdiction to grant a rate increase to cover what "might" be additional wage costs. Such a course would establish a dangerous precedent.

C. W. Brazier, counsel for British Columbia, said the question was whether the board "is going to approve a wage increase sought by railway employees." B.C. would not be a party to any proceedings before the board involving the settlement of a wage dispute between the railways and their employees.

The railways told the board that proceeds from the proposed increase would go fully to employees. The major impact would be to effect a settlement of the railways' dispute with 130,000 non-operating employees.

Questions at New Delhi

NONE OF THE IMPORTANT announcements regarding trade that were made at the recent Commonwealth conference in Montreal needed that sounding-board. They could—and no doubt would—have been made by the respective governments in the normal course of their affairs. But the conference did have one result that could have accrued only through the actual gathering of Commonwealth representatives, and that was a heightened appreciation of the Commonwealth as an entity in international trade and a renewed recognition that much can be done between its members for their mutual benefit.

In that sense, the Montreal talks may be remembered principally for their value as a pre-game warmup—a preparatory get-together for the wider discussions that began in New Delhi today.

Finance ministers of 68 member countries are meeting there as participants in the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development—both of which are agencies of the United Nations.

One of the most interesting speculations regarding the New Delhi talks concerns the prospects of Britain restoring convertibility of the pound sterling. This move was urged at Montreal by Prime Minister Diefenbaker since it would allow Canada, along with other countries, to sell more products to the United Kingdom.

Britain responded with a partial relaxation of convertibility restraints, permitting a sizable list of Canadian goods to enter Britain without restriction. But the action did not restore convertibility—that announcement may come at New Delhi.

When a country is buying more from abroad than it is selling to foreign customers, the "adverse" balance of trade must be made up by shipping gold or foreign currencies out of the country. This process cannot continue for long, since the country's reserves will be depleted and the nation forced into bankruptcy. Various devices are therefore employed either to restrict imports or encourage exports, and so restore the balance.

Tariff increases are the most common form of restriction on imports. The cost of the foreign product is thereby raised and so less

Still a Trouble Spot

THE RENEWED OUTBREAK OF violence in Lebanon, with mobs storming through Beirut streets to protest the latest cabinet appointments, does nothing to support those who urge the removal of American forces.

With the U.S. Marines now gone and little more than a token force of U.S. Army troops still in the unsettled country, the latest uprising confirms the still shaky situation of a new Government.

The rioters of today were the Chamoun government supporters of a few weeks ago, having traded roles with the rebels of that stormy period. But regardless of who is manning the barricades and who attacking them, it is obvious that this key Mediterranean state is far from stable yet.

Reasonable Auditorium Plan

MAYOR SCURRAH HAS RE-activated civic auditorium discussion with a financing study that commands respect.

He is turning his attention to a method by which the Greater Victoria community might raise the funds to construct such a building on an equitable plan for all who would use it.

On the basis of his preliminary announcement a small tax applied to the city and adjacent municipalities would be reasonable and fair.

The arguments in favor of an adequate civic auditorium are well known. The deterrent to its creation has been money. If the mayor's investigations disclose that adequate

Not Always as Ye Sow

WHEREVER THE STORY HAS been published readers are doubtless chuckling over the astuteness of Mr. Eric Neate, a manufacturer of Hampshire County, England.

When plans for his new plant were submitted to the authorities, they demanded detail on the greenery the owner intended to set around his buildings. He replied with a list of flora in Latin.

Granted permission to proceed, he provided a translation revealing the common names of the plants he proposed to grow: dandelions, nettles, thorns and other weeds.

The impression is left that the authorities were taken in by the

it is brought into the country. But clamping down on the amount of pounds, say, which may be used to buy dollars with which to pay for the imports is another way to discourage overseas purchases. The private trader is unable to get the currency with which to pay for imports, and so is restricted in his trading operations.

Britain has used a variation of this device in protecting its currency reserves. While retaining a semblance of convertibility between pounds and dollars, it placed a ceiling on the physical amount of certain goods that could be imported. When that quota had been filled for the year, no more could be brought in, and hence the pressure to buy dollars with pounds was eased.

At Montreal, Britain relaxed some of these ceilings. Canadian fish, for instance, had its quota lifted, so that the whole British Columbia pack was quickly sold. These relaxations were less than Mr. Diefenbaker wanted. Other countries, too, would be happy to see all such restrictions lifted by Britain.

One of the dangers of full convertibility is that there may be a "run on the bank." There may be such a demand for foreign currencies that the reserves are reduced and the country ends up worse off than before. This situation has faced Britain on previous occasions, and it is not one to be repeated.

The International Monetary Fund was organized in 1945 for just such emergencies. It is a pool of gold and various currencies from which member nations may draw to bolster their own currencies, later returning the "loans."

Britain seeks a guarantee of greater aid than now available from the Fund, before taking the important step of full convertibility. Mr. Diefenbaker, at the Montreal conference, proposed to increase Canada's quota to the Fund. This move, if taken up by other countries, could encourage Britain to make a favorable decision.

It is a decision that would mean much to Canada by increasing our possible markets in Britain. But that would entail the corollary that we must also open our markets further to Britain—a development about which Mr. Diefenbaker, against his general background of Tory protectionism, seems less enthusiastic.

Various devices are therefore employed either to restrict imports or encourage exports, and so restore the balance.

It is a decision that would mean much to Canada by increasing our possible markets in Britain. But that would entail the corollary that we must also open our markets further to Britain—a development about which Mr. Diefenbaker, against his general background of Tory protectionism, seems less enthusiastic.

When a country is buying more from abroad than it is selling to foreign customers, the "adverse" balance of trade must be made up by shipping gold or foreign currencies out of the country. This process cannot continue for long, since the country's reserves will be depleted and the nation forced into bankruptcy. Various devices are therefore employed either to restrict imports or encourage exports, and so restore the balance.

That British Humor

LONDON—A delightful thing, the English sense of humor. Over the past few days I've come across several examples of it at its best.

Take, for instance, the otherwise serious piece by Dr. Abraham Marcus, medical correspondent of the solid journal the Observer. The article was about Gray's Anatomy, most famous of all medical textbooks, which has just entered its hundredth year of publication.

In the course of describing how, in 1858, Henry Gray, a hitherto unknown young surgeon at London St. George's Hospital, published the book that was to bring him lasting fame, Dr. Marcus wrote this:

"In Britain, the study of anatomy has in the past been somewhat sullied with dishonor. Burke and Hare, the body-snatchers, are among the most famous names in its annals. These two supplied Dr. Knox of Edinburgh with bodies for dissection — 'no questions asked.' In an access of business enterprise they decided to murder, instead of plundering graves, in order to simplify the problem of supply. It was, perhaps, one of the earliest applications of time-and-motion study to industry."

Theatre critic Kenneth Tynan, himself no mean artist at turning a phrase (writing of the performance of one play he said: "Never was the throw-away technique more appropriate"), has quoted a couple of barbed comments by fellow critics.

YOUR HEALTH

What's a Check-Up?

Ernestine Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Today, many persons who have gone to an internist or to a big clinic for a "complete check-over" wonder if they have had enough tests. People are particularly likely to wonder about this when, after having been examined, they have been told that nothing has been found. They may start looking for another physician who will give them more tests, or will keep testing them until he finds some "organic" disease that perhaps can be cut out. Only rarely are they right; usually they are wrong, as when their real trouble is high blood pressure, a little stroke, an obvious neurosis, or a mild nervous breakdown.

Practically all of the patients who are in a nervous breakdown are sure they have some local bit of disease that will account for their feeling of fatigue and toxicity, their dizziness, their abdominal pain, their nausea or their backache. Many feel angry and outraged when told what is true—that their troubles are all due to nervousness.

At a great clinic many executives come each year for a check-over. First, a history is taken to see if, during the interval, there have been any symptoms to suggest failing health. The doctor, if wise, will size up the man as a whole to see if he looks fit and wide-awake, intelligent, neat and well-groomed. He will note if the man looks and dresses like an executive; does he walk with a firm stride; does he answer questions quickly and to the point, or is he mentally slow, or is there soup on the front of his coat? Does he look dissipated or alcoholic? Is he much too heavy? Is he friendly and pleasant, or is he irritable and testy? When it comes to appraising the man's fitness, these observations are often of far greater value than are the results of all the tests.

Next, the man will be examined physically. His heart sounds will be listened to, his blood pressure taken, his abdomen will be checked for tumors, and his rectum will be examined for polyps or a cancer. His arteries will be palpated to see if they are soft and if his pulse is good. An expert ophthalmologist should look into the backgrounds of the man's eyes because there he can see small arteries, and can tell how much hardening they show.

Often the expert can tell from a look into the eyes how dangerously ill a man is, especially if he has diabetes, high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis or disease of the kidneys. The patient's inguinal rings in the groin will be examined to see if he has ruptures.

After the physical examination, the man will go to the laboratories for studies of his urine and blood. A useful test is the red blood sedimentation rate which, if low, indicates that the man is in good health. If it is very high, he probably is suffering from some serious disease.

A certain blood test will show if the man's kidneys are functioning well; another will tell if he has a beginning diabetes, and another will tell if he has a tendency to gout. A high blood cholesterol will suggest a susceptibility to a heart attack or a little stroke. The presence in the blood of an excess of certain cells, called eosinophiles, will suggest an allergic disease or the presence of intestinal parasites. A normal hemoglobin-reading will usually rule out anemia. Today, in big clinics, a test for syphilis is done routinely on everyone.

In the cases of persons past middle age an electrocardiogram will be made to see how the heart is contracting. If there is any question about the liver, tests of its functions will be carried out. If the doctor suspects that the thyroid gland or a little goiter is too active or not active enough, the basal metabolic rate will be measured with a breathing test, or with one or two new methods.

In all cases, a person who is getting a check-over will have his lungs X-rayed in a search for signs of tuberculosis or cancer or other disease. Every year after the age of 40 the man should have X-ray studies made of his stomach and bowel in order to rule out cancer. Once in several years his gallbladder can be X-rayed to rule out beginning disease. If, during this type of examination, some sign of disease should be found, the clue may have to be followed up with more tests, especially designed to throw light on the abnormality discovered.

Arbitration Urged By Chamber Chief

MONTREAL (CP)—Binding arbitration as a means of settling long industrial disputes was suggested today by Ralph C. Pybus of Vancouver, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Pybus indicated machinery for settling such disputes might be set up by the government or through co-operation among labor, management and government.

He made the suggestion in his address to the chamber annual meeting and said it was a personal view because "there is as yet no general agreement in our chamber nor among business leaders as to the need and value of binding arbitration."

He added: "When management and union leaders cannot reach an agreement and disregard their community responsibilities it is right and just that our governments provide legal machinery to protect the rights of the employee, the employer and the public."

"I am thinking in terms of permanent specialized industrial boards with qualified advisers to assist the presiding judge."

He is president of Commonwealth Construction Co. Ltd.

200 ATTENDING

Theme of the three-day chamber is "Blueprint for Progress" and nearly 700 delegates from across Canada are attending.

Mr. Pybus said he had found, in his travels from coast to coast this year, recognition of the contribution labor unions have made towards the welfare of workers and of society in general.

"There is," he said, "a genuine desire and belief that our labor unions will remain with us and, accepting a fair share of responsibility, become a strong bulwark of democracy."

PRODUCE QUALITY

Canada's basic need in expanding trade in the face of growing world competition, Mr. Pybus said, is to produce goods of quality at prices which will sell.

"Our foremost challenge is our continuing cost inflation and continuing cost-price squeeze. Costs of increasing wages and taxes in deflationary markets seem to defy all economic laws; but we know

POLITICS BAN 'OUTMODED' SAYS MORRIS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Joe Morris, local president of the International Woodworkers of America, Sunday branded a constitutional embargo against political action in some unions as "archaic and outmoded."

Speaking at a labor education conference in Burnaby, he called for broader political education at the grass roots of the labor movement.

"We must get all our people to believe in political action and we must get them to take a definite political stand," he said.

'Free-Loading' Ads Protested

VANCOUVER (CP)—The editors and publishers of British Columbia's 59 weekly newspapers have protested against increasing use of newspaper space for free advertising.

George Coupland, co-publisher of The Surrey Leader, told a group discussion at the B.C. Weekly Newspapers Association convention here: "We are being asked more and more to publish stories and items advertising something or other without payment."

He mentioned as an instance a national food-canning firm which sent out recipes for publication with the company name discreetly printed at the bottom.

Dean Miller, of Vancouver's Public and Industrial Relations Limited, blamed public relations officials for sending to the weekly news reports and items which should properly go to specialized trade journals or business editors of major dailies.

His suggestion that a joint committee of the association and the B.C. Public Relations Society be set up to "hammer out the problem" will be studied by the association executive.

Officers elected were: President, A. W. Lundell, editor and publisher of Revelstoke Review; vice-presidents, Cecil Hacker, publisher of Abbotsford, Sumas and Matsqui News, and Leslie Campbell, publisher of Castlegar News; secretary-treasurer, Arthur Stanley, publisher of Arrow Lakes News, Nakusp.

With Sydney and Melbourne having the only television stations, Australia had 357,780 TV sets licensed in August, 1958.

Merger Set For IWA

VANCOUVER (CP) — Almost 40,000 British Columbia forest industry workers eventually will join in a new union as a result of a pact signed Saturday in Portland, Ore., Canadian president Joe Morris of the IWA said Sunday.

"This will make us one in the wood industry," Mr. Morris said of the "eventual merger" pact signed by representatives of the IWA and the Brotherhood of Pulp and Sulphite Workers.

Mr. Morris was Canadian representative on the joint committee which drew up the agreement aimed at ultimate amalgamation and providing for a two-year interim period of mutual consultation.

The IWA has a total membership of 130,000, 33,500 in B.C. The Pulp Workers have 170,000 members, 6,000 of them in B.C.

WHY I SUPPORT COMMUNITY CHEST

Today: George I. Warren, Commissioner, Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau

The Chest is a most worthy and most needed organization, whose importance is reflected in the effect it has on the health, welfare and happiness of this community.

The Chest's big value is that it recognizes the need for each of the charities in it. By recognizing them, it represents them when the time comes around every year to call on the public for money.

This is important. Some of the Chest's 20 agencies would have a hard time getting cash if they were not part of the Red Cross.

"In fact, this is the Chest. An organization which exists for all, and which stands for all. That is why I support it."

Tories 'Reneged' on Trade—Pearson

REGINA (CP) — Liberal leader Lester Pearson said Saturday night Canada should have seized Britain's offer of free trade and used it as a basis to work towards free trade among Atlantic countries.

Mr. Pearson addressed 300 persons at a Liberal fund-raising banquet here.

Accusing the Conservative government of not turning its election promises into performances, Mr. Pearson said the Conservatives had "forgotten" their pledge to divert 15 per cent of Canada's buying to the United Kingdom.

Then the British offered free trade but the offer was "swept under the rug as an embarrassing piece of dirt in the economic house."

"We should have seized on that offer at once. It couldn't have been accomplished all at once, but the two governments should have met at the highest level to work it out."

"And we should have said let's do it on a bigger basis. Let's do it on a basis that will lead to Atlantic free trade."

The Liberal leader said European countries are working towards free trade and Britain is moving in their direction.

"If we don't make a move soon," he warned, "we will be left high and dry on the North American continent."

Mr. Pearson said the government had introduced a customs bill with restrictions on trade equal to some of the worst restrictions imposed by the R. B. Bennett governments of the 1930s.

Trio Continues Impressive Play

From CP Reports

Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League scored their second straight exhibition hockey victory over an Okanagan club Saturday night downing Vernon Canadians 7-3.

The Canuck victory at Vernon came during a strong second period in which Vancouver's "kid line" of Ted Hampson, Danny Belisle and Mel Pearson was outstanding.

Walt Peacock scored three for Canucks, with singles by Phil Maloney, Brent Macnab, Don Carter, Jim Powers and Hampson. Tom Stecyk got two for Vernon and Jim More one.

Seattle Totems also continued their exhibition victory march through Okanagan territory by beating Kelowna Packers, western Canadian senior champs, 5-3 in a fast-paced game before 850 Kelowna fans.

TWO FOR BURTON

Cummy Burton picked up two goals and Val Fonteyne, Art Hart and Don Chiupa one each for the U.S.A.'s scoring.

Brian Roche got two for Kelowna and Moe Young a single.

Youngsters Pack Punch for Browns

NEW YORK (AP)—A pair of sophomores in the pay-for-play ranks—Milt Plum and Jimmy Brown—are threatening to make Cleveland Browns again the dominant force in the National Football League.

The two youngsters—Plum is 23, Brown 22—have provided coach Paul Brown with an awesome offence.

Plum, former Penn State star, passed for two touchdowns and completed 13 of 14 passes for 197 yards Sunday. Brown, an all-American at Syracuse, scored three touchdowns and carried the ball for 129 yards. The result: the Browns second consecutive win.

all-American at Pittsburgh Steelers.

Saturday night, Baltimore's Colts broke Lenny Moore loose for four touchdowns as they displayed a strong attack in rolling up a 51-38 score over the previously unbeaten Chicago Bears. The Cardinals, usually looked up as Chicago's poor sisters, upset Washington Redskins 37-10 for coach Frank (Pop) Ivy's first regular season win as an NFL coach. He was formerly with Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Football Conference.

In other Sunday action, Philadelphia Eagles defeated favored New York Giants 27-24. Los Angeles Rams belted San Francisco 33-13 with the 49ers' Joe Perry setting a career rushing record, and Detroit Lions and Green Bay Packers played a 13-13 tie.

'Cats No Puzzle To Oak Bay Club

Oak Bay Drakes came up with their most spectacular exhibition intermediate Canadian football win of the season on Saturday when they blasted the highly-touted North Shore Wildcats 38-7 at Macdonald Park.

With coach Jack Patrick calling the signals, Drakes sent fullback Ken Higgs over for three touchdowns and halfback Cliff Moore over for two more. Til Briggs added the other Oak Bay major.

Missing on his pass patterns in the first half, Patrick started hitting in the second, with end Pete Turko, Moore and end Til Briggs as his favorite targets.

Only blind spot in the Drake offense was on converts, with Turko missing four of five during the afternoon.

Optimists Win But Eagles Have Optimism

Eagles still haven't got off the ground in the young Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association season, but they expect to start soaring before the Division I campaign goes much further.

Reason for optimism is that Eagles lost their second straight game to Optimists Sunday by only a 2-0 count. In the first game, Eagles absorbed a 6-0 thumping and they consider Sunday's score a sign of better things to come in the two-team battle for league honors.

Pat Mulcahy and John Youson scored Optimists' goals.

HEANEYS WIN

In Sunday's other tussle, goals by Larry Johnston, Dave Collett and Ray St. Denis gave Heaneys a 3-0 win over Victoria West in Division II.

Saturday, Central Flyers got three tallies from Rickie Barnwell and single markers from John Louvasas, Sandy Sutherland and Ronnie Hatch to whip Colwood Pharmacy, 6-1.

Central Eagles were held to a 2-2 draw by Britannia Legion in a Division IV match. Bob Moysey and Gordon Strongman counted for Legion and Skip Ward and Maive Sundhar repelled for Eagles.

McRae Repeats Kegling Victory

With the second week of this season's championship bowling behind him at Capital City Bowling Alleys, Cec McRae came up with his second consecutive win Saturday, beating out Emile Liska and Wes Vogler with his 778 three-game series.

Liska registered a 670 and Vogler 665.

Elimination round of the event saw Vogler lead the 19-man field with 731, ahead of Liska with 716 and Dick Harrison at 668.

McRae will defend his crown again next Saturday.

Around the Victoria sports beat for the past couple of years they've been saying, "keep your eyes on Tom Collett, he's an athlete with a future."

The words either didn't reach Nanaimo or the Coaltown entry in the Victoria and District Football League just plain forgot to watch the youthful all-round athlete in a league match at Nanaimo Sunday.

Collett took advantage of the lack of attention to take care of all the scoring, firing two second-half goals to engineer a 2-0 triumph that kept the cartage crew on the top rung of league standings.

RUGGED BATTLE

In other Sunday games, Canadian Scottish twice battled from behind to remain in second place with a 4-2 win over Ladysmith at Royal Athletic Park. Kickers tripped Butlers, 3-1, at Heywood Avenue and Gorge Hotel blasted Esquimalt, 4-2.

The Scots had a rugged battle before finally wearing down the sturdy Ladysmith defence that was bulwarked by fullback Bert Seward and goaltender Dick Carmichael.

Goals by Charlie Constable and Ray Johnston gave the Up Islanders 1-0 and 2-1 leads, but the Scots got tallies from Gerry Cawley and Bill Ackinlose to reach the half in a 2-2 tie. Neil Standley sent Scottish ahead 18 minutes after the intermission and Ackinlose ended the scoring at 27 minutes.

Helmut Schmitz rapped in two goals and Jürgen Stoessel counted once for Kickers at Heywood Avenue. Gary Crowe collected Butler's lone marker.

EARLY LEAD

George Paul got Esquimalt away to an early lead at Central Park, but Gorge Hotel came back with four straight goals before Paul wrapped up the scoring for the afternoon.

Dick Nellestijn evened the count before the breather and Cliff Newman, Nellestijn and Chumby Crabbie notched second-half tallies before Paul hit his second goal.

Saturday, Brodies Bakery and Tillicums battled to a 2-2 deadlock at Athletic Park. All the scoring came in the final half with Morris Bunyon and George Wright scoring for Tillicums and Ken Hibbert and George Guckel taking care of the Bakers' scoring chores.

The Bucks, third-rated in U.S. college football circles, boasting an 18-pound-per-man weight advantage and favored by 20 points, cashed a first-period pass interception and a third-period blocked punt into touchdowns for their squeaky victory.

University of Oregon also came close to upsetting one of the nation's mightiest teams in a day of close calls and the games for grid powerhouses.

SCARY MOMENTS

Top-ranked Oklahoma had some frightening moments before squeezing out a 6-0 verdict over Oregon before 61,700 fans at Norman, Okla. The Sooners pushed over a second-period convert to down little Chattanooga in an exhibition American football game here Saturday.

Converts made the difference, Seattle succeeding on three attempts out of four and UBC one out of four.

Auburn Plainsmen, defending national champions, came up with 18 points in the final quarter to down little Chattanooga, 27-25, in an exhibition American football game here Saturday.

UBC's four touchdowns were all scored by halfback Don Vassos, one of them on a pass from quarterback Jack Henwood.

Ramblers Edge 'Birds by Toe

VANCOUVER (CP) — Seattle Ramblers edged the surprisingly strong University of British Columbia Thunderbirds 27-25 in an exhibition American football game here Saturday.

Seattle succeeded on three attempts out of four and UBC one out of four.

Rambler touchdowns were scored by Leon Randall, Paul Adams, Sam Buckley and Royal Dotson.

UBC's four touchdowns were all scored by halfback Don Vassos, one of them on a pass from quarterback Jack Henwood.

College Wins Opener

There wasn't much question of competition Saturday in the Victoria Rugby Union as a pair of "old-time" teams, JBAA and Oak Bay Reds, took on a pair of newcomers.

The offer, for a two-year contract, was made by Leo Leavitt, representing Western Promotions of San Francisco.

The 20-year-old Elliott, who has run 10 sub-four-minute miles, including his record 3:54.5, said he is returning today to his job as a clerk with a Melbourne chemical company. The company recently offered Elliott a university course of his choice.

Elliott said he had rejected the offer because he wanted to run for Australia in the 1962 Empire Games here in Perth.

Pete Fowels came through with three tries ahead of Charlie Bishop and Harry Turner, each with two, and Ross Irving, Harry Millard, Bob Abbott, Sonny Vickery and Vic Stodel, each with singles.

Saturday, Oak Bay Whites meet Royal Roads at Windsor Park, JBAA plays HMCS Venture while both Royal Roads tries were scored by Ernie Dueck.

Editor Raps 'Press Bias'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Doukhobor editor Saturday accused the press of British Columbia of "inaccuracy, prejudice and discrimination" in handling news about Doukhobors and the Sons of Freedom sect.

Kozma J. Tarasoff, editor of The Inquirer, Saskatoon paper published by Doukhobors, made the charges in a written statement, extracts from which were published Saturday by a Vancouver newspaper.

Mr. Tarasoff said no terrorism charge had ever been proved against a Doukhobor or Sons of Freedom. Even if it had, it would be unfair to blame his family, community or religious group.

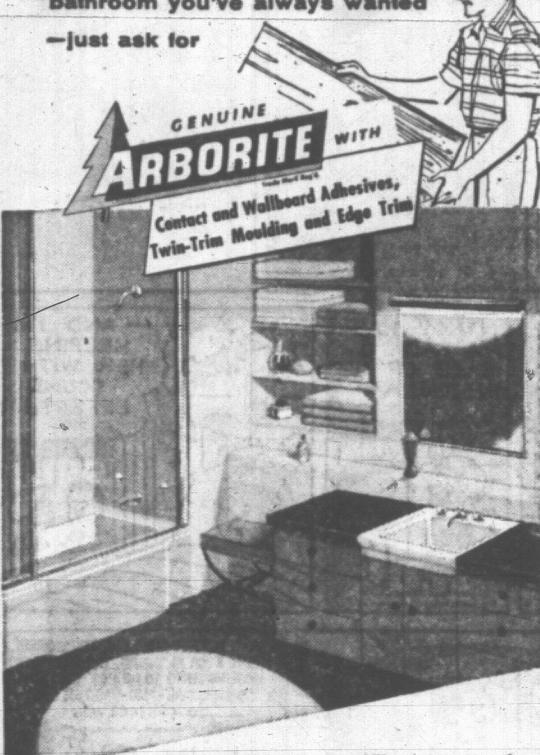

He objected to the abbreviation "Douk" in headlines, classing it with the terms "chink" and "nigger."

Symphony Debut Oct. 19 For City Pianist

A Victoria pianist who was honored last year by the Royal Academy of Music in London will make her Canadian symphony debut here this month.

Sheila Bates, 24, who still has a year's study at the academy ahead of her, is visiting the city for a few weeks to play with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra.

Last year, Miss Bates was permitted by the academy to perform several recitals in London and some German cities, including Berlin, along with an American cellist.

They were the first to be given permission to do a recital during the past three years Miss Bates has been at the academy.

"It was a bit of an honor and I was very lucky," she said in an interview.

Miss Bates will perform for the first time in Canada with a symphony Oct. 19 and 20 at the Royal Theatre.

She will play Bartok's third concerto and a Mozart rondo. The Victoria Symphony Orchestra will add Rossini's "Semiramide" overture and Schuman's fourth symphony.

Her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Bates, 1549 Despard, is a violinist with the orchestra.

HOTELS BAN PIANIST'S PET POOCH

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pianist Jose Iturbi went to four different hotels here Friday before he could find accommodation for himself and his Korean Palace hound.

The first three hotels refused to accommodate the dog, an official of the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra said. Mr. Iturbi is here to play at the symphony's open in concert Sunday.

The pianist, weary following a non-stop flight from Madrid, dismissed the matter with a wave of the arm.

"Carracua (the dog) has been in the best hotels in Europe and never caused any trouble," he said.

"I always intended to go back," he said. "I have faith in my invention. And I know

Labor and CCF Leaders Agree Merger Needed

NANAIMO (CP) — Although no concrete proposals were made, CCF leaders and labor representatives at a two-day conference which ended here Sunday were mostly in agreement in principle that the CCF should be established as the official political arm of the labor movement.

Colin Cameron, former CCF MP for Nanaimo, called it an "uneasy concubinage."

The exploratory conference, attended by 44 trade union and 45 CCF representatives, was called on the request of the Canadian Labor Congress.

"We're not suggesting for a moment we want to use you," Mr. Cameron told the labor leaders. "We're simply hoping that you'll join us in the party."

He said he hoped the conference had gone a step further towards placing a "broadly-based people's party" at the head of the provincial and federal governments.

NEED EACH OTHER

"For 25 years the CCF has been carrying on the fight—the only political group which labor has been able to go to with confidence."

Robert Barrie, president of the Victoria labor council, summed the conference up from the labor angle and said he felt "the CCF needs labor, and I must say labor needs the CCF."

He said the first task would be to convert the thinking of union members, "a big job."

William Black, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said the matter would come up for discussion at the federation's annual convention, beginning in Vancouver Oct. 21.

Family Nearly Hit By Transformer After Pole Crash

CAMPBELL RIVER — A falling 500-pound transformer barely missed a Vancouver couple and their three children 10 miles south of here Saturday night.

It fell when a small car driven by Ants Eerts, 2495 West 15th Avenue, Vancouver, collided with a pickup truck at Oyster River, then careened into a power pole.

The pole was split, and the transformer near the top of the pole crashed to the ground.

BROKEN LEG

Mr. Eerts suffered a fractured leg in the collision, and was taken to Campbell River General Hospital by ambulance. Mrs. Eerts and the children were taken to Campbell River by private car, and Mrs. Eerts was treated at the hospital for head injuries, cuts and bruises.

James York of Courtenay, driver of the truck, and his two-year-old son, a passenger, were unharmed.

PASSING TRUCK

The collision occurred while both cars were travelling north, and when Mr. Eerts apparently was passing the truck. The truck was badly damaged, and the car was reported a total loss.

Power was disrupted to 300 homes in the district, but was restored after two hours by B.C. Power Commission crews who went to work immediately.

MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN ISLAND DIGEST

(Writ by hand by Our Very Own Island Correspondents)

WALLOPEM BEACH, V.I.—Well, the city fathers held a meeting last night to see what can be done to bring a big rush of business at this time of year, this being the off-season, like.

All the citizens were very pleased to see the city fathers taking such a constructive move, and hoped the city fathers would come up with a good idea; which, sure enough, they did, much to the amazement of the citizens, and also the city fathers.

The city fathers decided to stage a hula hoop contest, not just an ordinary hula hoop contest, but an international one which would attract world-wide attention.

So the city fathers drew up a plan for a hula hoop contest, in which the only contestants would be genuine hula dancers (female) from Hono-hula, that place in Hawaii.

The city fathers thought this a splendid plan indeed, and so did the citizens (male) of Wallopeem Beach.

However, the city mothers said no.

But it doesn't matter much, this being the off-season, like.

WOBBLE HILL, V.I.—Lem Fidd is going to start a lawsuit which is bound to make headlines all over the world, and will be reported first and exclusively by Your Very Own Correspondent from Wobble Hill.

Lem brought one of them World Series pens which is guaranteed to write on butter.

Well, Lem found out it writes on butter, sure enough, but Lem can't afford butter, only margarine.

I will let you know when Lem's lawsuit starts, which will be as soon as Lem can afford a lawyer.

LATE FLASH ADD WOBBLE HILL—Lem is in trouble he wrote a lawyer with his new pen but the post office would not accept the butter. More later.

GOON CENTRE, V.I.—Mayor Abner Goon, the chief magistrate and leading citizen of this bustling, hustling, Island community, has just returned from the World Series of Baseball.

Mayor Goon was the winner of a free trip to the World Series of Baseball in a contest conducted by the Corporation of the Village of Goon Centre.

Judge of the contest was Mayor Goon.

Mayor Goon returned from the World Series of Baseball somewhat earlier than expected.

At the first game in Milwaukee, Mayor Goon attempted to make history by throwing out the first umpire.

He is resting quietly in the Goon Centre General Hospital, where officials say it is the first time the Mayor has been called "OUT" without an assist from his wife.

(The above dispatch was writ by hand by your Goon Centre correspondent, Mrs. Abner Goon.)

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Cloudy skies tonight and intermittent rain Tuesday morning were predicted today by weatherman William Mackie.

But there will be partial clearing by late morning, and cloudy skies with sunny periods Tuesday afternoon," he said.

Storm chiefly responsible for the wet weather is approaching from the north across the Gulf of Alaska. A smaller disturbance due west of here will have little effect, he said.

Temperatures will range between 45 and 55 degrees tonight and Tuesday, and winds will be westerly at 20 miles by Tuesday morning.

Four mink skins, of undetermined value, were found in a trash can at the Simcoe Street entrance to Beacon Hill Park Sunday.

The skins, somewhat scruffy in appearance, were turned in to city police. There has been no report of the skins being stolen.

A special meeting of Saanich council's public works committee tonight will discuss costs of a proposed sewer project for Cadboro Bay and the Ruby Road-Shelburne area.

Sewer by-laws authorizing the work will be put before Saanich residents in December.

Saanich Engineer Naville Life said today estimates for the project to benefit some 4,500 householders are now nearly completed.

George Shingera, HMCS Cayuga, was fined $250 in city police court today for impaired driving.

Court was told that Sunday he went through a red light on Government, crossed the centre line several times, went over a curb making a turn and went through another red light.

When stopped by police who asked him what he was drinking, evidence was he retorted "anything I can get my hands on."

Trustees of the Beaven estate have sold the six-acre woodland and garden property to an unidentified purchaser, it was reported today. The property adjoins Victoria Golf Club and faces Beach Drive.

A special general meeting of Victoria Golf Club members, originally scheduled for Oct. 8 to consider purchasing the property, has been cancelled as a result of the sale.

Junior and senior high school pupils, along with some in the upper elementary school grades, will visit the Emily Carr art display at the Greater Victoria Art Gallery this week. Forty works, selected from the best of 200 pictures left to B.C. by the noted painter, will be on display.

TEA, COFFEE DRINKERS IN DEAD HEAT

England's tea-drinking immigrants are promoting the habit, not only in Victoria, but all over Canada, says C. A. M. Cooke, of Vancouver, national president of the Tea and Coffee Association of Canada.

But, says Mr. Cooke, the influence of the English tea "grannies" is being counteracted by hordes of coffee-drinking immigrants from European countries.

The two rival influences are therefore producing "a kind of status quo," says English-born Mr. Cooke.

Mr. Cooke is presiding over a gathering of some 250 tea and coffee producers from all over Canada and the United States at the 11th annual convention of the Tea and Coffee Association of Canada—the first such convention ever held in western Canada.

Cabinet To Meet Workers

The B.C. cabinet has agreed to meet Oct. 27 with representatives of provincial civil servants looking for more pay.

John Murrell, director of organization for the B.C. Government Employees Association, told The Times the letter agreeing to the Oct. 27 date was received from the government today.

"We were glad to get it," he said. "I hope now we can get this thing settled."

The association is seeking an 11 per cent wage boost for its 11,400 members. Some 100 government stationary engineers wanting a 9 per cent increase have a meeting with the cabinet scheduled Oct. 14.

The letter to the association today came after several weeks in which the government refused to acknowledge letters and telegrams sent to the Legislative Buildings by the BCGEA and Victoria Labor Council asking for a meeting with the cabinet.

Earlier a majority of the association's membership gave the nod to its executive to "take all necessary action, including a strike vote," to back up demand for an 11 per cent pay increase.

The civil servants feel another 11 per cent will bring their wages up to the rates paid in private industry.

Paul Miklenic was fined $25 and $3 costs for carrying a loaded firearm in a vehicle, and $10 and $3 costs for carrying a firearm without a licence.

Mervin A. Pears, 3690 Savanah, was fined $25 and $3 costs for being in possession of a willow grouse out of season.

Two men charged under the Game Act in Colwood RCMP court paid a total $60 in fines when they pleaded guilty Friday.

Long-time "Mr. Hockey" to sports fans across the country, Foster Hewitt will address a Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the War Amputes Hall, Oak Bay Junction.

Meeting of Machinists, Fitters and Helpers Union, Local 3, will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at 715 Johnson.

Workers Wanted

Union Certified

Says Labor Board

British Columbia Labor Relations Board granted certification to the Steelworkers' Union in the Burnaby plastics plant of Raymond A. Pitre because a majority of workers supported the action, it was learned today.

The case achieved prominence lately when Mr. Pitre closed his $1,000,000 Sierra Developments Ltd., protesting the union certification.

He said at the time a majority of his workers opposed any union affiliation. He said he had affidavits to that effect.

But today the board stated it "was satisfied that at the date of application, a majority of the employees of the unit, were members in good standing of the trade union."

James L. King, $50 for carelessness driving.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today:

Walter Turlock, 2440 Dahlousie, $25 for not having a current driver's licence and $10 for improper lights on his car.

George L. McKay, 2658 Quadra, $10 for crossing a double line.

James L. King, $50 for carelessness driving.

Drive-In Robbed of $680; 'Have Gun and I'll Use It'

Thief Scoops Cash Into Shopping Bag

By TONY DICKASON

A bandit with a white silk stocking pulled over his hair, who said he had a gun but failed to flash it, is reported to have robbed Paul's Drive-In Restaurant on Douglas Street of $680 shortly before 3 a.m. Sunday.

Police are conducting an investigation but clues are slim.

The cashier, Mrs. Molly Robertson, 44, of 3804 Quadra, an employee of Paul's for 14 years, was "cashing up" a few minutes before 3 a.m. when a man "carrying a shopping bag ran in from outside."

She quoted him as saying: "This is a hold-up. Don't move or holler or I'll shoot. I have a gun and I'll use it."

SPEECHLESS

Paralyzed with shock, Mrs. Robertson said nothing. The man reached across the counter to the open till, scooped up the money with one hand and shoved it into the shopping bag which he held with the other.

"I didn't see a gun. He just said he had a gun," the cashier said. She said he wore a white silk stocking on his head, but his face was uncovered. He was wearing dark pants and a light grey coat.

She described him as being a "nondescript type," dark, and around 25 years of age.

MISSED $73

He missed $73 in U.S. currency kept in a separate part of the cash register.

"I don't know if I'd recognize him again," said Mrs. Robertson.

The robbery was "fast and smooth" and took only about a minute.

There were five customers and two waitresses in the establishment at the time. They were at the rear of the cafe and didn't see what was going on.

The thief ran from the restaurant.

"It was dark outside, but I think he got away in an old model yellowish-brown car. It pulled out fast, so I think there must have been a driver waiting."

The stolen money was mostly in bills.

Mrs. Robertson said it appeared the robbery had been thoroughly planned to coincide with her getting off shift at 3 a.m. and counting the cash beforehand.

The Man Behind the Rail

CALGARY—We came to the end of the line Friday—and found a rootin'-tootin' welcome on the banks of the mighty Peace River.

To the stranger, the first impression of the town of Fort St. John is a breeze, buoyancy and an optimism you can feel in the air.

"My work has been recognized and honored in several parts of the world. I have already sold two by my Victoria paintings (for $700 and $350) and I had some success in Vancouver, too."

"It would be better if the people of Victoria, not just a few second-rate painters, gave this a country with elbow-room, a great place for a young man to flex his muscles."

When the spike-driving ceremonies were concluded Friday and Fort St. John's number four flares brought out with a shuddering roar, a lot of natives were describing Frank McMahon as "the man who made the rail extension possible."

Seven miles out of Fort St. John, McMahon has built a massive, $32,000,000 plant far from where the old Peace PGE Bridge collapsed. Sulphur is being shipped out in impressive quantities and may soon go as far as India.

McMahon's Taylor Plant is described as "Canada's most northerly industry." His west coast gas pipeline investment,

Success has not changed

Frank McMahon. His walk through the streets of Fort St. John Friday afternoon was interrupted every few feet or so by the hand-wringing of a well-wisher.

They do not begrudge him his present eminence. They know that Frank McMahon "toughed it out" for 25 lean years and that his unshakable faith in the broad Peace Country has brought benefits to them all.

The fact that he has never forgotten the old-timers who helped him in his struggling days has made him a great favorite, worthy of the warm tribute paid him by Premier Bennett Friday.

McMahon is still a young man. We'll doubtless be hearing more of his explorations and developments.

Fine English Filet Lace In These Dresser Runners

By PENNY SAVER

Anyone who knows fine lace will love these English filet lace runners. (A charming idea for any feminine name on your gift list.) The delicate hand-made pieces are sized 16" by 34" and 12" by 18". Price is so low it's almost unbelievable... $1 and up.

Soft but tough wearing are the delicately embroidered petit point pillow slips I've discovered. You'd like to give them as a wedding present or as a gift for any occasion. They're $2.95 a pair.

In the same store, embroidered red Irish linen napkins for luncheon, tea, or buffet tables, would make the most particular woman turn her head for a second look. In an array of pastel shades with floral stitching, these napkins sell at $2.72 a box.

Australian wool has been used in some delightful "throws." Perfect for your bed when winter nights close in or to cover your knees at a football game or in your car. In rich warm colors and with fringed edges, these 60" by 72" "throws" are priced at $3.50 each.

Nurses! I know where white, seamed work nylons are selling at $1 a pair. They're hard wearing—especially for busy Florida Nightingales!

For the menfolk I've found warm work shirts that will stand all sorts of wear and tear. In tartans or plain colors, the shirts bear the price tag of $1.95.

Bet you don't know where I shopped! Give me a call at EV 2-3131 and I'll tell you.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Pity the snob:

Why

would

surprised?

Louise Davis answers:

Snobbery is a dreadful thing. A person thinking or making such a remark is thoughtless, unintelligent and uncharitable, as well as a snob. I can't believe that such warped people are really happy or contented with life. We can only hope that with time and with some real brushes with humility they will mellow into better people. Character is the measuring stick of a person regardless of his or her station in life. There can be no taint to the profession of housekeeper. The way one earns a living shouldn't determine where a person "belongs." Any one from a queen to an impoverished woman living in a tent can be a lady. Affluence, education, "social position" is no criterion. The person who made the remark about you is to be pitied, not necessarily because she said it, but because she thought it.

Holiday in Canada Leads To Permanent Residence

BY MAUREEN DUFFUS

To an Englishwoman holidaying here in 1930, Canada was a strange and fascinating country. And one of the most intriguing things for Lily Henderson, president of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, was a conversation with an Indian chief.

"We were staying with my brother-in-law and sister, at their store on the Malahat," she explains. "In those days, every car had to stop on the hill for water, and a frequent visitor was an Indian chief from Mill Bay. He was well educated and I found it fascinating to be in a three-way conversation with him and his wife. He spoke perfect English to us, then quickly switched to a peculiar, primitive grunting conversation with his wife."

Miss Henderson is a Canadian resident now and loves it here.

After the 18-month holiday here in 1930 Miss Henderson and her parents returned to England, where she worked in London and later in the council office at a village called Redcar on the Yorkshire coast. Then, during the war, Miss Henderson applied for permission to bring her aging parents to Canada to escape the bombings.

"We waited six months, then had 36 hours' notice to catch the ship."

"It was not a pleasant voyage," says Miss Henderson with a smile.

Voyage Brings Years of Peace

But Miss Henderson considers the perilous trip well worth it, for it gave her parents peace in their last years, and also brought her to a country she loves.

"My first job in Victoria was with the YWCA, as desk and business secretary."

"That's the place for getting to know Victoria. I met hundreds of people from the lieutenant-governor down. And I had to learn about the geography of Victoria, too, for we often had American tourists coming in for information."

Miss Henderson now works for the federal department of finance here, in conjunction with the department of national health and welfare, where she heads the section dealing with family allowance and pension cheques which go astray.

"Government cheques are never forwarded, so when they are returned to us, we must trace the recipient and send it on."

"In the case of cheques lost, strayed or stolen, the procedure involves forms and letters and is finally dealt with at Ottawa."

Miss Henderson lives in a duplex on Richmond Road, where she enjoys garden without having to do anything about it. Hobbies used to be needlework and crochet work but now, she says, she has advanced to the point where her favorite hobby is reading, with motoring a close second—when she has time.

But time, unfortunately, is limited for the president of a large club. She has been on the executive of the Business and

DEAR ABBY: I am going to have a head full of romantic ideas, but I never thought man interested in art and he has ideas, but I never thought man been doing a lot of painting. I don't know quite how to say it, but he paints the female figure from life and some of the girls have very little on, if anything. I know some girls pose for artists and think nothing of it, but I don't think I could do it. He keeps asking me to pose for him. When I refuse he tells me I am being childish and old-fashioned. Am I?

NO MODEL

DEAR NO: Artists have no difficulty engaging professional models to pose for them. If he won't take "NO" for an answer — give him "the brush."

DEAR EIGHTEEN: A heart full of love can't beat long on an empty stomach. A wise girl will be realistic about the earning capacity of her future husband. She'll help him all she can and be satisfied to live with him. Good wives do not make burdensome demands on their husbands and let them do the pulling the load.

EIGHTEEN

DEAR ABBY: My mother and I had a long talk about what a girl should expect from her husband and I can tell you, Abby, I am shook. She said her philosophy was: "Accustom your husband to the idea that you intend to maintain a very high standard of living, and you'll absolutely not accept anything but the best for yourself or your children and he had better make enough money to supply it." I am only 18, Abby, and maybe many men prefer to do business with an old established firm.

Do you suffer sometimes from tense nerves, irritability, feelings of depression?

Some people experience symptoms like these because their systems are upset by ingredients present in everyday beverages. While some can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without ill-effects, others cannot, particularly those with 'nervous' temperaments.

Step out of the shadow of nagging nerves

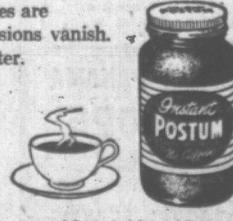

Postum does not contain tannin which sometimes interferes with digestion; or caffeine, theophylline and theobromine which are stimulants that can cause nerves, depression, distress.

Why take chances? Switch to Instant Postum. Postum is guaranteed to contain no stimulants or drugs. It does not taste or act like ordinary beverages. Postum has a comforting flavor of its own. Make Postum easily, instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly-boiling water and stir.

Try Postum for 30 days. When nerves are comforted, digestion improves, depressions vanish. You sleep better, feel better, look better. Get Instant Postum. Comfort for less than 1¢ a cup.

... ADLAI REPORTS ON SOVIET TRADE

Wanted: Excavators

Mikoyan touched on the same point: "We might want to buy some excavators in the U.S. over a year or so to help with our canal-building program." "But," I said, "I've seen the largest excavators in the world in the great Uralmash plant in the Urals." "True," he answered, "but our plants are working at capacity, and when we need still more excavators temporarily we would rather buy them than expand our production and create useless capacity."

I doubt if very much excess capacity has been built which would have been unnecessary had post-war relations with the West been normal. But some diversion of labor, materials and skills painfully needed for repair and development is certainly part of the price they have paid for dividing the world and, incidentally, encouraging an earlier Chinese adventure — the attempt to take Korea.

To my questions about Soviet attitudes on economic self-sufficiency, Mikoyan said, with smiling sarcasm, that they took into account the statements of "brave generals of your about wiping the Soviet Union off the face of the earth," and wanted to be independent of the "capitalist world" in the basics. To depend on foreign sources for say 5 per cent to 10 per cent of a given machine, Mikoyan said, would not impair that independence.

"We're for Trade"

"We are for trade," he repeated. "You can produce some things more cheaply than we can, and we should expand output of the items we can produce more cheaply." He said they had lots of timber, paper, cellulose to sell, "even to the United States," and that they wanted to sell oil and minerals all the war materials we sent them during the war. I was tempted to remind Mr. Khrushchev that Russia was allied with Hitler until he turned on us and that their awful losses were suffered not to help us but in self-defence.

He went on to say that he really didn't expect American credits; that American aid, as the case of West Germany showed, was not a matter of expenditure but political policy. Likewise, he said, while America criticizes Soviet concentration on heavy industry at the expense of consumer goods, it won't help us improve the situation by developing, for instance, our chemical industry. Khrushchev's conclusion was that "the Russian people now see that Americans are not really concerned about their welfare but are pursuing political aims of their own."

Obstacles on Road

I wonder if they always charge us with political motives for everything because they always have one? And these curious little contortions of fact to fit everything into a pattern of American malevolence revealed again the obstacles on the road to that mutual "trust" which Khrushchev says we must establish. Mr. Mikoyan is a slight, sharp Armenian, and eager for more trade with us. I asked him some questions and he was off:

Soviet foreign trade last year was over $8,000,000,000; and the Soviet Union could find $500,000,000 or $600,000,000, or even $1,000,000,000 to trade with the United States. "Back in 1931, Soviet-U.S. trade reached $600,000,000 at prices of that time. Now the Soviet economy is much more developed and our output is increasing at 11 per cent to 12 per cent a year," he told me.

When I asked him what goods they could exchange in such volume, he said: "The goods will appear when interest appears; certain branches of our industry could be expanded still more rapidly if the U.S. showed interest in trade." But, he concluded, "trade would be virtually impossible unless present discriminatory practices were abandoned."

Recital of Grips

There followed a recital of grievances: visa difficulties, discriminatory tariffs, export licensing, concluding with this:

"Your system of export licensing for everything is very bureaucratic. The Soviet Union is also plagued with bureaucracy, but in this you surpass us." It was about the only concession I got in Russia!

When I asked him what they wanted most from us, he mentioned textile and chemical machinery, equipment for paper factories, and referred to other items in Khrushchev's letter to the president. He was very pleased by a recent deal with an American company for chemical equipment. While he thought that businessmen of the two countries "got along quite well together," Mikoyan said

President Roosevelt's slogan was "live without fear," but evidently American firms were living in fear of trading with the USSR.

Trade is very much on the minds of the Russian industrialists and about the only visible bad temper I saw in the USSR was the manager of a machine tool factory in Siberia who exploded: "What sort of a national policy is it not to trade?" He revealed the extreme stubbornness of the Russians who have been forced at great effort, expense and economic inconvenience to build plants to make machinery they could buy abroad cheaper and quicker.

B.C.'s Mobile Cabinet Off Again

Members of the provincial cabinet returned to Victoria from the Peace River country Sunday but were to leave again today for the Okanagan.

Premier Bennett, after his tiring crusade in the north, left immediately for his Kelowna home when he stepped from the PGE special at North Vancouver.

Tuesday morning, the cabinet meets at Vernon—part of a centennial year program of the government to all parts of the province.

A three-part special train carrying the cabinet, executives of other major railway companies and suppliers, press and interested members of the public, left Fort St. John Friday night.

Saturday, at Williams Lake, Premier Bennett was to have visited the second and third sections of the train. But he sent a message that, due to lag in arrival of all sections, he would be unable to do so.

Newsmen aboard the second section had hoped for a press conference.

The PGE is now cleared for thrice-weekly service by Budd cars, for passengers between

Prince George and the two northern termini of Fort St. John and Dawson Creek. Service between North Vancouver and Prince George is on a daily basis.

The last link between end of PGE steel at Dawson Creek and end of steel at the same centre, of the Northern Alberta Railway, is to be laid shortly. This will permit a great circle route, Vancouver, Dawson Creek, Edmonton and back to Vancouver on southern trans-provincial lines.

Weekend Magazine's exclusive Canadian serialization of the contents of Field Marshal Montgomery's memoirs begins Saturday in the Times.

Released for publication upon his retirement as Deputy Supreme Commander Allied Forces in Europe on Sept. 20th, the memoirs will appear in four installments, the first of which appears Saturday. In it, Monty tells his own story of Alamein, revealing the magnitude of the task, followed by the gigantic deception plan which contributed to the resounding victory over Rommel's forces in the war at Alamein.

The series will tell in Monty's own crisp and forthright language how he planned and fought the battle of Alamein, how the battle for Europe was joined, how he and Eisenhower disagreed in sometimes violent argument, how he commanded Canadians in Sicily and Italy, how he regarded the sacrifice of Canadian lives at Dieppe.

NEW YORK-PARIS RECORD SET BY BOEING 707 JET

PARIS (AP)—Pan American Airways Sunday claimed a record of seven hours, five minutes for a New York-to-Paris flight.

The trip was made in a Boeing 707 jet passenger liner on a test flight prior to the start of regular commercial service. Pan American said the plane averaged 540 miles an hour, aided by a 50-mile tailwind.

Stricken with a cerebral stroke, Pope Pius XII lay near death today at Castel Gandolfo, Italy. He has received the Roman Catholic Church's last rites.

PM Cool on 'Help' Call From Municipal Leaders

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's cities and towns today launched their appeal for increased federal financial assistance but Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated the central administration has huge commitments of its own, requiring heavy financing and borrowing.

Defence and social security programs alone took up almost $4,000,000,000 or two-thirds of total federal spending annually, Mr. Diefenbaker said as he opened a two-day federal-municipal conference in the Parliament Buildings.

The federal administration would have a budget deficit of some $700,000,000 this year. Its borrowing needs were so great that it had to increase its total bond issues by an average of about $100,000,000 a month.

But the municipalities saw the situation from a different light. Mayor H. G. R. Mews of St. John's, Nfld., president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said cities and towns are wearing out faster than they can be rebuilt.

He said it is highly improbable that municipalities will make any headway against this trend "unless additional financial support is made available to them over and above their present revenue resources."

RULES OUT DISCUSSION

Mr. Diefenbaker immediately ruled out any discussion of granting municipalities any new financial powers. That was a matter for the provinces. They had the exclusive responsibility in this field under the constitution.

He said the municipalities are firm believers in the three-level governmental arrangement in Canada—federal, provincial and municipal.

They had no desire to circumvent the constitutional framework within which this system of government works.

"It has proven durable and adequate and has withstood the stresses and strains of every testing period since Confederation."

But Mr. Mews said expansion requirements of Canada's cities and towns in future will make what has lately been done seem small by comparison.

The projects that have been carried out, even though of major proportions, are small compared to the magnitude of the things that will have to be done if we are to provide our communities with the kind of facilities which a modern economy requires."

TRAFFIC THE KEY

Mr. Mews said traffic "and all that it means has become the key factor in urban renewal."

The immediate future also was going to bring a heavy demand for more school class-

Trade and Aid Gain Friends

This is the fifth in a series of articles by Adlai Stevenson, Democratic leader, on his recent visit to the Soviet and Eastern Europe. Today Stevenson discusses Russia's bid for U.S. trade.

By ADLAI E. STEVENSON

I have been writing about Russia's external relations with foreign nations and the other members of the Communist bloc. And before going on to tell about Russia from the inside, I want to say something about Russia's foreign trade and aid.

Last year Soviet trade reached large proportions. Deputy premier Anastas Mikoyan told me it was over $8,000,000. Trade, like production, is controlled by the state and costs (which we can't accurately compute) are not decisive of prices, as in private business. Consequently Communist trade can be managed to serve political as well as economic ends. For example, Russia can take commodities which others may have

And it is reliably reported that the Communist trade and aid drive has won important economic footholds in some 19 countries from Argentina to Indonesia.

There are other reasons, too, for this penetration, including long-term low-interest credits, liberal currency provisions and low prices. Russian oil has even invaded the Western Hemisphere—in exchange for Argentine wool, Brazilian coffee and Chilean copper—and at cut-rate prices. Soviet aluminum, tin, platinum and zinc exports have

"I think our Premier Bennett would go along with a three-level conference but some premieres might not particularly like the premier of one eastern province," he said, in a veiled reference to Quebec's Premier Maurice Duplessis.

Mayor Scurrah said he was

C. A. P. Murison, attending the Ottawa conference as president of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, is expected to seek support for his "new deal" plan at the meeting.

The plan, revealed at the recent UBCM convention in Nanaimo, calls for a complete revision of municipal responsibilities under which senior governments would take over all welfare, hospital construction, school operating and arterial road construction costs.

ON FERRY TAKEOVER

Court Fight Due Late This Month

Court battle between the B.C. Federation of Labor and the provincial government over the use of the Civil Defence Act to take over the Black Ball Ferries last June probably will come immediately after the federation's Vancouver convention Oct. 21 to 24, an official said to day.

Denis McKeown, business agent for the National Association of Marine Engineers, said the issue to be contested was not so much the government's decision to take over the ferries, as the use of the Civil Defence Act in a labor dispute.

"NO EMERGENCY"

"There was no emergency," he told The Times, "and use of the act was improper."

Reported by high Vatican officials who visited the Pope, and by other sources.

But shortly before the evening bulletin, a high church source reported a specific sign of improvement.

Marquis Giambattista Sacchetti, quartermaster general of the Sacred Apostolic Palaces, said after leaving the Papal villa that the Pope "drank some coffee and spoke a few words."

A world-wide plea for prayers for the pontiff's recovery was broadcast by the Vatican radio.

The pontiff's immediate family, including his nephews and nieces, arrived here and were immediately ushered to an antechamber of his bedroom.

The Vatican radio asked Catholics to pray to God and to the Virgin Mary for restoration of the pontiff's health "which is so precious for the Church and the world."

Vatican sources said the pontiff suddenly awakened while he was being treated for the gastritis and hiccoughs that have troubled him during the last few days.

The combination of hiccoughs and gastritis was the same ailment that struck the pontiff four years ago, gravely weakening him and bringing him near death. But he made a complete recovery and, despite his advanced age, once more resumed the heavy burden of directing the Roman Catholic Church with its nearly 500,000,000 members.

Since his 1954 illness, the pontiff had seemed in excellent health until last week.

Special prayers for the ailing Pope Plus are being said at all masses of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

Mass times are 7, 8 and 12.15 Monday through Saturday; 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 a.m. Sunday.

Crandall was called out on strikes, looking at a curve.

Logan also was caught looking at a third strike.

SIXTH INNING

Milwaukee: Bruton singled on a high grounder that took a bounce over Kubek's head.

Howard made a spectacular tumbling catch of Schoendienst's fly in short left centre and doubled up Bruton who had rounded second. McDougald deflected Howard's throw but the ball rolled to Skowron who tagged Bruton as he was returning to first. Howard and McDougald were given assists on the play.

Milwaukee: Aaron struck out on three pitches and flied his bat high in the air in disgust.

No runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

New York: Bauer singled through the hole between third and short.

Lupke fouled off three bunt attempts and was charged with a strikeout.

Howard was given an intentional pass, filling the bases.

Skowron punched a single past the drawn-in infield, into right field, scoring Mantle and leaving the bases still loaded.

That was all for Burdette. It was the first time Lew had failed to finish in five series starts against the Yankees. Pizarro replaced Burdette.

That British Humor

LONDON—A delightful thing, the English sense of humor. Over the past few days I've come across several examples of it at its best.

Take, for instance, the otherwise serious piece by Dr. Abraham Marcus, medical correspondent of the solid journal the Observer. The article was about Gray's Anatomy, most famous of all medical textbooks, which has just entered its hundredth year of publication.

In the course of describing how, in 1858, Henry Gray, a hitherto unknown young surgeon at London St. George's Hospital, published the book that was to bring him lasting fame, Dr. Marcus wrote this:

"In Britain, the study of anatomy has in the past been somewhat sullied with dishonor. Burke and Hare, the body-snatchers, are among the most famous names in its annals. These two supplied Dr. Knox of Edinburgh with bodies for dissection—no questions asked."

In an access of business enterprise they decided to murder, instead of plundering graves, in order to simplify the problem of supply. It was, perhaps, one of the earliest applications of time-and-motion study to industry."

Theatre critic Kenneth Tynan, himself no mean artist at turning a phrase (writing of the performance of one play he said: "Never was the throw-away technique more appropriate"), has quoted a couple of barbed comments by fellow critics.

What's a Check-Up?

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Today, many persons who have gone to an internist or to a big clinic for a "complete check-over" wonder if they have had enough tests. People are particularly likely to wonder about this when, after having been examined, they have been told that nothing has been found. Then many start looking for another physician who will give them more tests, or will keep testing them until he finds some "organic" disease that perhaps can be cut out. Only rarely are they right; usually they are wrong, as when their real trouble is high blood pressure, a little stroke, an obvious neurosis, or a mild nervous breakdown.

Practically all of the patients who are in a nervous breakdown are sure they have some local bit of disease that will account for their feeling of fatigue and toxicity, their dizziness, their abdominal pain, their nausea or their backache. Many feel angry and outraged when told what is true—that their troubles are all due to nervousness.

At a great clinic many executives come each year for a check-over. First, a history is taken to see if, during the interval, there have been any symptoms to suggest failing health. The doctor, if wise, will size up the man as a whole to see if he looks fit and wide-awake, intelligent, neat and well-groomed. He will note if the man looks and dresses like an executive; does he walk with a firm stride; does he answer questions quickly and to the point, or is he mentally slow and is there soap on the front of his coat? Does he look dissipated or alcoholic? Is he much too heavy? Is he friendly and pleasant, or is he irritable and testy? When it comes to appraising the man's fitness, these observations are often of far greater value than are the results of all the tests.

Next, the man will be examined physically. His heart sounds will be listened to, his blood pressure taken, his abdomen will be checked for tumors, and his rectum will be examined for polyps or a cancer. His arteries will be palpated to see if they are soft and if his

On the retirement of A. H. Smith, warden of New College, Oxford, the Daily Telegraph was prompted to quote a sample of how he enlivened things in those precincts: "There was once a meeting when a proposal by the warden was defeated by 20 votes to one—his own. 'Gentlemen,' he said, 'evidently we have reached a deadlock.'

And Punch has made the final comment on 1958's saturated summer, which put the damper on all sorts of outdoor activity. A full page drawing of Noah's ark shows the animals going in two-by-two—joined by a couple of cricketers.

Charlie Chaplin, hopping mad about three of his old feature films being reissued and going the rounds of suburban cinemas here in "mutilated" form, as program-filler lasting only about half an hour. He's going to sue. And well he might.

I took the youngsters to Shoulder Arms, to laugh, I thought, as I had laughed when I saw it as a kid many a year ago. But whoever is reissuing these films, without consulting Chaplin, had cut out of Shoulder Arms that scene in which he is a front line observer disguised as a tree—one of the most famous of all Chaplin sequences. Mutilation is the right word for it.

pulse is good. An expert ophthalmologist should look into the backgrounds of the man's eyes because there he can see small arteries, and can tell how much hardening they show.

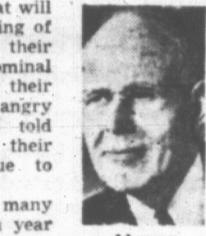

Often the expert can tell from a look into the eyes how dangerously ill a man is, especially if he has diabetes, high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, or disease of the kidneys. The patient's inguinal rings in the groin will be examined to see if he has ruptures.

After the physical examination, the man will go to the laboratories for studies of his urine and blood. A useful test is the red blood sedimentation rate, which, if low, indicates that the man is in good health. If it is very high, he probably is suffering from some serious disease.

A certain blood test will show if the man's kidneys are functioning well; another will tell if he has a beginning diabetes, and another will tell if he has a tendency to gout. A high blood cholesterol will suggest a susceptibility to a heart attack or a little stroke. The presence in the blood of an excess of certain cells, called eosinophiles, will suggest an allergic disease or the presence of intestinal parasites. A normal hemoglobin reading will usually rule out anemia. Today, in big clinics, a test for syphilis is done routinely on everyone.

In the cases of persons past middle age an electrocardiogram will be made to see how the heart is contracting. If there is any question about the liver, tests of its functions will be carried out. If the doctor suspects that the thyroid gland or a little goiter is too active or not active enough, the basal metabolic rate will be measured with a breathing test, or with one or two new methods.

In all cases, a person who is getting a check-over will have his lungs X-rayed in a search for signs of tuberculosis or cancer or other disease. Every year after the age of 40 the man should have X-ray studies made of his stomach and bowel in order to rule out cancer. Once in several years his gallbladder can be X-rayed to rule out beginning disease. If, during this type of examination, some sign of disease should be found, the clue may have to be followed up with more tests, especially designed to throw light on the abnormality discovered.

MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN ISLAND DIGEST

(Writ by hand by Our Very Own Island Correspondents)

WALLOPEM BEACH, V.I.—Well, the city fathers held a meeting last night to see what can be done to bring a big rush of business at this time of year, this being the off-season, like.

All the citizens were very pleased to see the city fathers taking such a constructive move, and hoped the city fathers would come up with a good idea, which, sure enough, they did, much to the amazement of the citizens, and also the city fathers.

The city fathers decided to stage a hula hoop contest, not just an ordinary hula hoop contest, but an international one which would attract world-wide attention.

So the city fathers drew up a plan for a hula hoop contest, in which the only contestants would be genuine hula dancers (female) from Hono-hula, that place in Hawaii.

The city fathers thought this a splendid plan indeed, and so did the citizens (male) of Wallopeem Beach. However, the city mothers said no.

But it doesn't matter much, this being the off-season, like.

WOBBLE HILL, V.I.—Lem Fidd is going to start a lawsuit which is bound to make headlines all over the world, and will be reported first and exclusively by Your Very Own Correspondent from Wobble Hill.

Lem brought one of them World Series pens which is guaranteed to write on butter.

Well, Lem found out it writes on butter, sure enough, but Lem can't afford butter, only margarine.

I will let you know when Lem's lawsuit starts, which will be as soon as Lem can afford a lawyer.

LATE FLASH ADD WOBBLE HILL—Lem is in trouble he wrote a lawyer with his new pen but the post office would not accept the butter. More later.

GOON CENTRE, V.I.—Mayor Abner Goon, the chief magistrate and leading citizen of this bustling, hustling, Island community, has just returned from the World Series of Baseball.

Mayor Goon was the winner of a free trip to the World Series of Baseball in a contest conducted by the Corporation of the Village of Goon Centre.

Judge of the contest was Mayor Goon.

Mayor Goon returned from the World Series of Baseball somewhat earlier than expected.

At the first game in Milwaukee, Mayor Goon attempted to make history by throwing out the first umpire.

He is resting quietly in the Goon Centre General Hospital, where officials say it is the first time the Mayor has been called "OUT" without an assist from his wife.

(The above dispatch was writ by hand by your Goon Centre correspondent, Mrs. Abner Goon.)

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Cloudy skies tonight and intermittent rain Tuesday morning were predicted today by weatherman William Mackie.

But there will be partial clearing by late morning, and cloudy skies with sunny periods Tuesday afternoon, he said.

Storm chiefly responsible for the wet weather is approaching from the north across the Gulf of Alaska. A smaller disturbance due west of here will have little effect, he said.

Temperatures will range between 45 and 55 degrees tonight and Tuesday, and winds will be westerly at 20 miles by Tuesday morning.

Four mink skins, of undetermined value, were found in a trash can at the Simcoe Street entrance to Beacon Hill Park Sunday.

The skins, somewhat scruffy in appearance, were turned in to city police. There has been no report of the skins being stolen.

A special meeting of Saanich council's public works committee tonight will discuss costs of a proposed sewer project for Cadboro Bay and the Ruby Road-Shelburne area.

Sewer by-laws authorizing the work will be put before Saanich residents in December.

Saanich Engineer Naville Life said today estimates for the project to benefit some 4,500 households are now nearly completed.

George Shingera, HMCS Canada, was fined $250 in city police court today for impaired driving.

Court was told that Sunday he went through a red light on Government, crossed the centre line several times, went over a curb making a turn and went through another red light.

When stopped by police who asked him what he was drinking, evidence he was retorted "anything I can get my hands on."

Trustees of the Beaven estate have sold the six-acre woodland and garden property to an unidentified purchaser, it was reported today. The property adjoins Victoria Golf Club and faces Beach Drive.

A special general meeting of Victoria Golf Club members, originally scheduled for Oct. 8 to consider purchasing the property, has been cancelled as a result of the sale.

Junior and senior high school pupils, along with some in the upper elementary school grades, will visit the Emily Carr art display at the Greater Victoria Art Gallery this week. Forty works, selected from the best of 200 pictures left to B.C. by the noted painter, will be on display.

TEA, COFFEE DRINKERS IN DEAD HEAT

England's tea-drinking immigrants are promoting the habit, not only in Victoria, but all over Canada, says C. A. M. Cooke, of Vancouver, national president of the Tea and Coffee Association of Canada.

But, says Mr. Cooke, the influence of the English tea "grannies" is being counteracted by hordes of coffee-drinking immigrants from European countries.

The two rival influences are therefore producing "a kind of status quo," says English born Mr. Cooke.

Mr. Cooke is presiding over a gathering of some 250 tea and coffee producers from all over Canada and the United States at the 11th annual convention of the Tea and Coffee Association of Canada—the first such convention ever held in western Canada.

Cabinet To Meet Workers

The B.C. cabinet has agreed to meet Oct. 27 with representatives of provincial civil servants looking for more pay.

John Murrell, director of organization for the B.C. Government Employees Association, told The Times the letter agreeing to the Oct. 27 date was received from the government today.

"We were glad to get it," he said. "I hope now we can get this thing settled."

The association is seeking an 11 per cent wage boost for its 11,400 members. Some 100 government stationary engineers wanting a 9 per cent increase have a meeting with the cabinet scheduled Oct. 14.

The letter to the association today came after several weeks in which the government refused to acknowledge letters and telegrams sent to the Legislative Buildings by the BCGEA and Victoria Labor Council asking for a meeting to discuss more money.

Earlier a majority of the association's membership gave the nod to its executive to "take all necessary action, including a strike vote," to back up demand for an 11 per cent pay increase. The civil servants feel another 11 per cent will bring their wages up to the rates paid in private industry.

Paul Miklenic was fined $25 and $3 costs for carrying a loaded firearm in a vehicle, and $10 and $3 costs for carrying a firearm without a licence.

Mervin A. Pears, 3690 Savannah, was fined $25 and $3 costs for being in possession of a willow grouse out of season.

Two men charged under the Game Act in Colwood RCMP court paid a total $60 in fines when they pleaded guilty Friday.

Long-time "Mr. Hockey" to sports fans across the country, Foster Hewitt will address a Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the War Amputees Hall, Oak Bay Junction.

Meeting of Machinists, Fitters and Helpers Union, Local 3, will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at 715 Johnson.

Workers Wanted Union Certified Says Labor Board

British Columbia Labor Relations Board granted certification to the Steelworkers' Union in the Burnaby plastics plant of Raymond A. Pirie because a majority of workers supported the action, it was learned today.

The case achieved prominence late when Mr. Pirie closed his $1,000,000 Sierra Developments Ltd., protesting the union certification.

He said at the time a majority of his workers opposed any union affiliation. He said he had affidavits to that effect.

But today the board stated it was satisfied that at the date of application, a majority of the employees of the unit, were members in good standing of the trade union.

George L. McKay, 2658 Quadra, $10 for crossing a double line.

James L. King, $50 for careless driving.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Walter Turlock, 2440 Dahlousie, $25 for not having a current driver's licence and $10 for improper lights on his car.

George L. McKay, 2658 Quadra, $10 for crossing a double line.

James L. King, $50 for careless driving.

CLOSE STUDY OF FINANCING PLAN

New Auditorium Proposal Goes to Committee Friday

The revived proposal of a Greater Victoria civic auditorium will be discussed by intermunicipal committee for the auditorium.

But intermunicipal committee probably will concentrate on the financing proposal suggested by Mayor Scurrah.

Times music and drama critic, Audrey St. D. Johnson, has been appointed head of a committee set up by a group of private citizens who plan to campaign for funds through public subscription for the auditorium.

Mayor Percy Scurrah, committee chairman, today set the date for the meeting.

Times music and drama critic, Audrey St. D. Johnson, has been appointed head of a committee set up by a group of private citizens who plan to campaign for funds through public subscription for the auditorium.

Richardson, who retains the trophy for a year and keeps a replica for life, said he will compete in 1959 "if it isn't too far away."

The new national champion has now come first in every scramble he has ever entered except one when he came second.

Winners in the 500 cc Expert class for the Canadian National Championship Scrambles Trophy were Tom Richardson, Wes Morhart, Bill Smith and Ernie Hills, all from the Victoria Club.

In the Unlimited class, Richardson topped Dayton Mackenzie of Vancouver, and teammate Bill Smith.

CLOSE SECOND

Dave Moore of Victoria ran a close second to Bill Squeala, Vancouver, in the Senior race, and was followed home by Bill Hawryluck of Vancouver.

An Ontario club, originally scheduled to enter, was unable to get to the meet, 20 miles outside of Vancouver, in time.

This year was the first time that the championship event has been held on the west coast and next year will move back to the east.

Copies of their protest letter were sent to both local newspapers and the Mexican Consulate in Vancouver.

It reads, in part:

"We, the undersigned, feel that the people of Victoria have a right to feel considerably surprised at the character of the paintings by Mr. Andres Salgo.

The paintings are incompetent. His lecture on the evening of Oct. 2 was unintelligible. To say that the Mexican Government was ill-advised in sponsoring him is, we feel, a gross understatement."

'HOUSE-PAINTERS'

Mr. Salgo today was not worried, and declined official comment.

"There is no reason why I should make a statement in reply to a bunch of house-painters," the $8,000-a-year artist said.

"My work has been recognized and honored in several parts of the world. I have already sold two of my Victoria paintings (for $700 and $350) and I had some success in Vancouver, too."

"It would be better if the people of Victoria, not just a few second-rate painters, gave their opinion."

young man to flex his muscles.

When the spike-driving ceremonies were concluded Friday and Fort St. John's number four flare brought in with a shuddering roar, a lot of natives were describing Frank McMahon as "the man who made the rail extension possible."

Seven miles out of Fort St. John, McMahon has built a handsome, $32,000,000 plant not far from where the old Peace PGE Bridge collapsed.

Sulphur is being shipped out in impressive quantities and may soon go as far as India.

McMahon's Taylor Plant is described as "Canada's most northerly industry." His west coast gas pipeline investment,

Thief Scoops Cash Into Shopping Bag

By TONY DICKASON

A bandit with a white silk stocking pulled over his hair, who said he had a gun but failed to flash it, is reported to have robbed Paul's Drive-In Restaurant on Douglas Street of $680 shortly before 3 a.m. Sunday.

Police are conducting an investigation but clues are slim.

The cashier, Mrs. Molly Robertson, 44, of 3804 Quadra, an employee of Paul's for 14 years, was "cashing up" a few minutes before 3 a.m. when a man "carrying a shopping bag ran in from outside."

She quoted him as saying: "This is a hold-up. Don't move or holler or I'll shoot. I have a gun and I'll use it."

SPEECHLESS

Paralyzed with shock, Mrs. Robertson said nothing. The man reached across the counter to the open till, scooped up the money with one hand and shoved it into the shopping bag which he held with the other.

"I didn't see a gun. He just said he had a gun," the cashier said. She said he wore a white silk stocking on his head, but his face was uncovered. He was wearing dark pants and a light grey coat.

She described him as being "a nondescript type," dark, and around 25 years of age.

MISSING $73

He missed $73 in U.S. currency kept in a separate part of the cash register.

"I don't know if I'd recognize him again," said Mrs. Robertson.

The robbery was "fast and smooth" and took only about a minute.

There were five customers and two waitresses in the establishment at the time. They were at the rear of the cafe and didn't see what was going on.

The thief ran from the restaurant.

It was dark outside, but I think he got away in an old model yellowish-brown car. It pulled out fast, so I think there must have been a driver waiting.

The stolen money was mostly in bills.

Mrs. Robertson said he appeared the robbery had been thoroughly planned to coincide with her getting off shift at 3 a.m. and counting the cash beforehand.

Fine English Filet Lace In These Dresser Runners

By PENNY SAVER

Anyone who knows fine lace will love these English filet lace runners. (A charming idea for any feminine name on your gift list.) The delicate hand-made pieces are sized 16" by 34" and 12" by 18". Price is so low it's almost unbelievable . . . $1 and up.

Soft but tough wearings are the delicately embroidered petit point pillow slips I've discovered. You'd like to give them as a wedding present or as a gift for any occasion. They're $2.95 a pair.

In the same store, embroidered

ered Irish linen napkins for luncheon, tea, or buffet tables, would make the most particular woman turn her head for a second look. In an array of pastel shades with floral stitching, these napkins sell at $2.72 a box.

* * * Australian wool has been used in some delightful "throws." Perfect for your bed when winter nights close in or to cover your knees at a football game or in your car. In rich warm colors and with fringed edges, these 60" by 72" "throws" are priced at $9.50 each.

* * * Nurses! I know where white, seamed work nylons are selling at $1 a pair. They're hard-wearing—especially for busy Florence Nightingales!

For the menfolk I've found warm work shirts that will stand all sorts of wear and tear. In tartans or plain colors, the shirts bear the price tag of $1.95.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Pity the snob:

Recently I overheard an acquaintance make a remark that I can't dismiss from my mind and thought you might like to make some comments. The statement was: "It is strange that someone like Mrs. I (meaning me) would bother being so friendly and nice to her former house keeper." After this woman an (our house) Louise Davis (keeper) retired, the employer-employee relationship ripened into that of friendship, for she is as fine a person as I have ever known. I am certain that anyone "exposed" to her is inspired to be a better person. It makes me wonder if people are sometimes automatically classified in the upper stratum because they went to private schools and colleges, because they traveled, or are fortunate enough to have "prestige" jobs. I can't help loving this woman.

Louise Davis answers:

Let's talk
REAL ESTATE

By Jack Mears

This week I want to talk to you about insurance. We've always advocated in this column that every man should have his own trade and that when you wish to sell a business, call in an Agent. Most of you are undoubtedly aware that our offices are also Insurance Agents and arrange insurance on behalf of their clients.

Although both Don and myself have an average knowledge of insurance we have always felt that to obtain the best advice in the Real Estate business we should have a real insurance expert in this office. We have now been able to obtain an expert insurance agent to assist you in this regard. I am referring to Jack Roberts, recently a Montreal Branch Manager of the Astoria Insurance Company and an Agent of the Insurance Institute of Canada.

Jack Roberts is a native son of Victoria, returning here to live after a very interesting career in the insurance business. He is a friend and an important connection in the business from coast to coast and we consider that we are very lucky to have obtained his services. He is a man of great integrity and we are sure that he will give you the same support and encouragement that you have given us. I know that you will be most pleased to have him on our staff.

PM Cool on 'Help' Call From Municipal Leaders

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's cities and towns today launched their appeal for increased federal financial assistance but Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated the central administration has huge commitments of its own, requiring heavy financing and borrowing.

Defence and social security programs alone took up almost $4,000,000,000 or two-thirds of total federal spending annually. Mr. Diefenbaker said as he opened a two-day federal-municipal conference in the Parliament Buildings.

The federal administration would have a budget deficit of some $700,000,000 this year. Its borrowing needs were so great that it had to increase its total bond issues by an average of about $100,000,000 a month.

But the municipalities saw the situation from a different light. Mayor H. G. R. Mews of St. John's, Nfld., president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities said cities and towns are wearing out faster than they can be rebuilt.

He said it is highly improbable that municipalities will make any headway against this trend "unless additional financial support is made available to them over and above their present revenue resources."

RULES OUT DISCUSSION

Mr. Diefenbaker immediately ruled out any discussion of granting municipalities any new financial powers. That was a matter for the provinces. They had the exclusive responsibility in this field under the constitution.

Mayor Mews, following Mr. Diefenbaker, said the federation would like to see a federal-provincial-municipal conference convened to find ways of providing funds for municipal responsibilities.

He said the municipalities are firm believers in the three-level governmental arrangement in Canada — federal, provincial and municipal.

They had no desire to circumvent the constitutional framework within which this system of government works.

"It has proven durable and adequate and has withstood the stresses and strains of every testing period since Confederation."

But Mr. Mews said expansion requirements of Canada's cities and towns in future will make what has lately been done seem small by comparison.

"The projects that have been carried out, even though of major proportions, are small compared to the magnitude of the things that will have to be done if we are to provide our communities with the kind of facilities which a modern economy requires."

Earlier in the hearing, Pacific Western Airlines asked and was given permission by the board to withdraw its application for a transcontinental licence.

BENNETT AGREABLE

"I think our Premier Bennett would go along with a three-level conference but some premiers might not particularly like the premier of one eastern province," he said, in a veiled reference to Quebec's Premier Maurice Duplessis.

Mayor Scurrah said Saanich is a prime example of the need for wider municipal revenue sources.

There are dozens of fast-growing communities like Saanich across the country. They are having a hard time providing much-needed services with present revenue sources, mainly the property tax."

PWA Drops Cross-Canada Route Bid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines said today it would lose $30,000,000 in the first three years of competitive trans-continental air service.

The estimate was made by J. C. Edison, counsel for TCA, at a hearing before the air transport board. The board is considering an application by Canadian Pacific Airlines for a share in the transcontinental market, now monopolized by the government-owned TCA.

Cease-Fire Red 'Trick'

Times News Services

TAIPEI — Red China's guns were silent today as Peiping announced a seven-day cease-fire, effective midnight Sunday, on the condition the United States stop escorting Nationalist Chinese convoys to embattled Quemoy island.

The cease-fire order was coupled with a call to Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek to negotiate directly with the U.S. to escort Nationalist supply convoys with its 7th Fleet warships.

Chiang, in an interview with a U.S. newsmen, rejected any such direct negotiations with the Communists. He said the Peiping announcement was a "trick and deception" and he hoped the U.S. would continue to escort Nationalist supply convoys to Quemoy if the shooting stops.

The cautious U.S. reaction was voiced in a statement by Christian R. Herter, acting state secretary.

Herter said the offer "seems to move in the direction of a cease-fire."

The United States hoped the Red offer to suspend bombardment of Nationalist-held offshore islands "foreshadows a permanent cessation of their armed attack."

The five-man board rejected a motion by eight provinces contesting that the board lacked jurisdiction to hear the case.

Roderick Kerr, recently-designated assistant chief commissioner, said:

"We consider that the board has jurisdiction to hear the case and to grant such relief as the board deems just and proper."

Mr. Kerr said the board would permit the railways to present evidence so that it can determine "just and reasonable rates for the next year or so."

SPECIAL TIMES SERIES

Trade and Aid Gain Friends

This is the fifth in a series of articles by Adlai Stevenson, Democratic leader, on his visit to the Soviet and Eastern Europe. Today Stevenson discusses Russia's bid for U.S. trade.

By ADLAI E. STEVENSON

I have been writing about Russia's external relations with foreign nations and the other members of the Communist bloc. And before going on to tell about Russia from the inside, I want to say something about Russia's foreign trade and aid.

Last year Soviet trade reached large proportions. Deputy premier Anastas Mikoyan told me it was over $8,000,000. Trade, like production, is controlled by the state and costs (which we can't accurately compute) are not decisive of prices, as in private business. Consequently Communist trade can be managed to serve political as well as economic ends. For example, Russia can take commodities which others may have trouble selling—Iceland's fish, Ceylon's rubber, Uruguay's wool, etc.

And it is reliably reported that the Communist trade and aid drive has won important economic footholds in some 19 countries from Argentina to India.

There are other reasons, too, for this penetration, including long-term low-interest credits, liberal currency provisions and low prices. Russian oil has even invaded the Western Hemisphere—in exchange for Argentine wool, Brazilian coffee and Chilean copper—and at cut-rate prices. Soviet aluminum, tin, platinum and zinc exports have

MURDER HEARING CLOSED

Preliminary hearing for Leo Anthony Manta, charged with the barroom knife murder Sept. 6 of naval rating Aaron H. Jenkins, will be held "in camera," Magistrate Henry C. Hall decided when the hearing opened this afternoon in Esquimalt police court.

The request was made by prosecutor W. R. McIntyre and concurred in by defense counsel Alan Macfarlane.

Mr. McIntyre asked for the closed hearing because "the interests of justice would not be adequately served if it was held in public."

Mathews singled to right.

Earlier, a federation spokesman said if the action in the B.C. Supreme Court fails, the Canadian Labor Congress will take it to the Supreme Court of Canada.

"We feel very strongly about this thing," he added.

Bombs Wreck Texas School

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—Three bombs, expertly set off during early morning fog Sunday, wrecked the classrooms of Clinton High School where enforced integration first broke into the resisting South two years ago.

But students and teachers were summoned to meet at the undamaged gymnasium to receive instructions for a quick resumption of classes—racially mixed as before. Ten negroes are enrolled with about 850 white pupils.

Five Anderson County officials flew to Nashville Sunday afternoon to confer with Governor Frank Clement, who promised them the fullest state aid in continuing classes and solving the bombing.

McDougald was credited with a ground rule double when Covington lost his long fly in the sun. The ball landed a few feet to his left and bounded into the visiting bull pen in deep left, scoring Berra and Howard as Skowron stopped at third.

The Red Chinese cited "humanitarian considerations" in announcing a seven-day halt to the artillery fire that has harassed Quemoy since Aug. 23.

They invited the Nationalist Chinese to send fresh supplies to the off-shore island, but specified the shipments must be made without U.S. naval convoys.

SEVENTH INNING

Covington fanned. It was Turley's ninth strikeout.

Torre grounded out to Skowron.

Six runs, six hits, no errors, one left.
